JORDAN

Coach: Michael Dickey (USA)

Player to watch: Stephanie Al Naber (Midfielder, Shabab Al Ordon Club)

Rank (FIFA/AFC): 51/11

AFC Women's Asian Cup appearances: 2014

Best finish: Group stage (2014)

Qualifying method: Jordan qualified automatically as AFC Women's Asian Cup Jordan 2018 hosts, but still participated in qualifying Group A in Dushanbe, Tajikistan, which they won.

What to know: After their breakthrough qualification for the 2014 AFC Women's Asian Cup, Jordan return as hosts with the goal of FIFA Women's World Cup Qualification firmly in their sights. The West Asians have long dominated their own region, now – after leaving no stone unturned in their preparation - they have the chance to make history on its behalf.

The trio of Maysa Jbarah, Stephanie Al Naber and Shahnaz Jebreen combined for a staggering 28 goals in qualifying and remain key for Al Nashmiyat, but much is expected of a new generation of youngsters including Tasneem Abu-Rob and Sara Abu-Sabbah.

PHILIPPINES

Coach: Rabah Benlarbi (FRA)

Player to watch: Patrice Impelido (Defender, Hiraya FC)

Rank (FIFA/AFC): 72/15

AFC Women's Asian Cup appearances: 1981, 1983, 1993, 1995, 1997, 1999, 2001, 2003

Best finish: Group stage (Eight occasions)

Qualifying method: Jordan qualified by finishing second behind Jordan in Group A, held in Dushanbe, Tajikistan.

What to know: The Malditas are back in the finals for the first time since 2003 after they won three of five matches to successfully qualify in Tajikistan last April. While that achievement was rightly lauded, the squad that will feature in Jordan bears little resemblance to the one that qualified, with only six of those players earning selection for the final 23.

Veteran defender Patrice Impelido and midfield creator Sara Castañeda are among those who remain, while a number of the team's new faces ply their trade in the American college system. The Malditas also have a new head coach in experienced Frenchman Rabah Benlarbi.

CHINA P.R.

Coach: Sigurdur Ragnar Eyjólfsson (ISL)

Player to watch: Wang Shuang (Midfielder, Wuhan Women's FC)

Rank (FIFA/AFC): 17/5

AFC Women's Asian Cup appearances: 1986, 1989, 1991, 1993, 1995, 1997, 1999, 2001, 2003, 2006, 2008, 2010, 2014

Best finish: Champions (1986, 1989, 1991, 1993, 1995, 1997, 1999, 2006)

Qualifying method: China PR qualified automatically by finishing third at AFC Women's Asian Cup Vietnam 2014.

What to know: The tournament's most successful nation, the Steel Roses have never finished outside the top four at the AFC Women's Asian Cup and, as the highest-ranked team in Group A, they are expected to feature in the knockout stages again in Jordan. Since Icelandic Siggí Eyjólfsson replaced Bruno Bini as head coach in November, the side has seen gradual improvement, although finished a disappointing eleventh at March's Algarve Cup.

Much will depend on the performances of star midfielder Wang Shuang, while Wang Shanshan and Li Ying will be relied on to provide goals. Goalkeeper Zhao Lina is a part of the squad in Jordan despite announcing her international retirement in early 2018.

THAILAND

Coach: Nuengrutai Srathongvian

Player to watch: Kanjana Sung-Ngoen (Forward, Chonburi Sports School)

Rank (FIFA/AFC): 30/6

AFC Women's Asian Cup appearances: 1975, 1977, 1981, 1983, 1986, 1989, 1991, 1995, 1999, 2001, 2003, 2006, 2008, 2010, 2014

Best finish: Champions (1983)

Qualifying method: Thailand qualified as winners of Group C, held in Al-Ram, Palestine

What to know: A near-perennial qualifier for the AFC Women's Asian Cup, Thailand made history at the 2014 edition tournament by finishing fifth and securing their first trip to the FIFA Women's World Cup the following year. The Southeast Asians performed admirably in Canada, edging Côte d'Ivoire 3-2 to earn a maiden win on the global stage.

This time around, a return to the world stage is an expectation, and as the second-highest ranked team in Group A, Nuengrutai Srathongvian's charges will believe a place in semi-finals is attainable. Thailand's squad has 16 players who have previously appeared in the tournament, with Duangapa Sritala and Pitsamai Sornsai the most experienced. Kanjana Sung-Ngoen will be relied upon as the team's attacking threat.

JAPAN

Coach: Asako Takakura

Player to watch: Saki Kumagai (Defender, Olympique Lyonnais)

Rank (FIFA/AFC): 11/3

AFC Women's Asian Cup appearances: 1977, 1981, 1986, 1989, 1991, 1993, 1995, 1997, 1999, 2001, 2003, 2006, 2008, 2010, 2014

Best finish: Champions (2014)

Qualifying method: Japan qualified automatically as winners of AFC Women's Asian Cup Vietnam 2014.

What to know: Nadeshiko playing great, and five-time AFC Female Coach of the Year, Asako Takakura leads Japan to a major senior tournament for the first time and, with six World Cup winners in the squad, hopes are high. A mixed run of results has seen the side fall out of the world's top 10 sides, but their squad remains packed with stars.

Saki Kumagai, Mizuho Sakaguchi, Rumi Utsugi, Aya Sameshima and Mana Iwabuchi are household names in the Asian game, while the likes of Mina Tanaka, Nana Ichise and Kumi Yokoyama are primed to deliver in their first senior continental championship. A thumping 7-1 pre-tournament win against Ghana will ensure Takakura's charges arrive in Jordan high on confidence.

VIETNAM

Coach: Mai Duc Chung

Player to watch: Nguyen Thi Tuyet Dung (Midfielder, Ha Nam FC)

Rank (FIFA/AFC): 35/7

AFC Women's Asian Cup appearances: 1999, 2001, 2003, 2006, 2008, 2010, 2014

Best finish: Group stage (Seven occasions)

Qualifying method: Vietnam qualified as winners of Group D, held in Hanoi, Vietnam.

What to know: Appearing in their seventh consecutive AFC Women's Asian Cup, the Southeast Asians return to the tournament motivated by the playoff defeat which prevented them from qualifying for the 2015 FIFA Women's World Cup. Mai Duc Chung's side didn't lose a match in 2017 – winning a SEA Games gold medal and convincingly qualifying for Jordan 2018.

Drawn with Australia, Japan and Korea Republic, Vietnam faces an uphill battle to reach the semi-final stage for the first time, but 11 players have AFC Women's Asian Cup finals experience and they can boast some star players. Dang Thi Kieu Trinh is one of the continent's best goalkeepers, Nguyen Thi Tuyet Dung and Nguyen Thi Lieu provide quality in midfielder, and Huynh Nhu is a prolific goal scorer.

AUSTRALIA

Coach: Alen Stajcic

Player to watch: Samantha Kerr (Forward, Perth Glory / Chicago Red Stars)

Rank (FIFA/AFC): 6/1

AFC Women's Asian Cup appearances: 1975, 2006, 2008, 2010, 2014

Best finish: Champions (2010)

Qualifying method: Australia qualified automatically as runners-up at AFC Women's Asian Cup Vietnam 2014.

What to know: After one of the best calendar years in the history of the national team, Australian expectations are high. A twelve-month unbeaten streak came to an end in Portugal last month, but a 5-0 beating of Thailand in Perth on the eve of the tournament underlined the Matildas' depth and quality.

The squad is littered with players who have both major tournament experience and highly impressive club résumés. AFC Women's Player of the Year has established herself as a global star of the women's game, but Alen Stajcic's side had quality all over the park. All-time leading scorer Lisa De Vanna will appear her fifth AFC Women's Asian Cup.

KOREA REPUBLIC

Coach: Yoon Duk-yeo

Player to watch: Ji So-yun (Forward, Chelsea FC)

Rank (FIFA/AFC): 16/4

AFC Women's Asian Cup appearances: 1991, 1993, 1995, 1997, 1999, 2001, 2003, 2006, 2006, 2008, 2010, 2014

Best finish: Third place (2003)

Qualifying method: Korea Republic qualified as winners of Group B, held in Pyongyang, DPR Korea

What to know: Korea Republic proved their quality by finishing above three-times DPR Korea to qualify, now their ever-improving squad will look to leave their mark on the tournament proper. Yoon Duk-yeo's side will have to deal with a difficult draw, which will see them face Australia and Japan, the highest-ranked teams in the tournament and its two previous two winners.

In Ji So-yun, Cho So-hyun and Lee Min-a, Korea Republic boast three world class midfielders, and Lee Geum-min scored four goals in as many matches in the qualifiers. They are highest ranked side in the draw never to have won the tournament.

VENUES

AMMAN INTERNATIONAL STADIUM

Capacity: 17,000

Matches:

April 6: China PR vs. Thailand, Jordan vs. Philippines
April 10: Vietnam vs. Australia, Korea Republic vs. Japan
April 12: Jordan vs. China PR
April 13: Japan vs. Australia
April 16: 5th/6th playoff
April 20: Final, 3rd/4th

Information: The home of the Jordanian men's national team and league champions Al-Faisaly, the Amman International Stadium has hosted a number of major events since it opened in 1968.

After a 2007 renovation it hosted that year's Asian Athletics Championships and both legs of the 2007 AFC Cup Final, when Al-Faisaly lost to Shabab Al-Ordon in all-Jordanian decider.

The stadium hosted the final of the FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup in 2016, and, with 2018 marking half a century since its opening, the AFC Women's Asian is set to add another chapter to the venue's rich history.

KING ABDULLAH II STADIUM

Capacity: 13,000

Matches:

April 7: Japan vs. Vietnam, Australia vs. Korea Republic
April 9: Philippines vs. China PR, Thailand vs. Jordan
April 12: Thailand vs. Philippines
April 13: Korea Republic vs. Vietnam
April 17: Two Semi-finals

Information: King Abdullah II Stadium is the home ground of Al-Wehdat, a major Jordanian club which has won six of the past ten men's national league titles in the nation. The stadium has twice hosted the West Asian Football Federation (WAFF) Championship and was the venue for memorable Jordanian men's national team wins against Australia and Japan in 2012 and 2013 respectively.

Jordan 2018 will add to a growing history of international women's football, with eight matches, including both semi-finals, held at the ground during the FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup Jordan 2016.
